ELUCIDATION
ON
THE LAW OF THE REPUBLIC OF INDONESIA
NUMBER 15 YEAR 2011
ON
THE GENERAL ELECTION IMPLEMENTERS

I. GENERAL

General election is the manifestation of people's sovereignty in order to create a democratic government. The implementation of general election which is direct, public, free, secret, honest and fair can be realized if it is implemented by general election implementers that have high integrity and understand as well as respect the civil and political rights of the citizens. Weak Election implementers have the potential to hinder the creation of a high quality Election.

As mandated by the 1945 Constitution of the Republic of Indonesia, the general election implementers have the duty to implement elections with the institutions that are national, permanent and independent in nature.

One of the important factors for the success of the elections lies in the readiness and professionalism of the Election Implementers, namely the National Elections Commission (KPU) and the Election Supervisory Body (Bawaslu). Both institutions have been mandated by law to implement elections according to the functions, duties and authority of each institution.

In connection with the implementation of elections in 2009, which has not run optimally, it is necessary to have remedial steps towards improving the quality of elections. These improvements include the improvement of schedule and stages as well as more adequate preparation. Based on these things, Law Number 22 of 2007 on General Election Implementers need to be changed.
